Motor Trucks Extend Food Supply Radius 50 Miles

HERBERT HOOVER says: "The motor truck has given every town an extended radius of food supply by some 50 miles, and thereby protects such vital matters as milk and perishables."

Formerly 10 miles was as far as the farmer could profitably haul his produce. The increasing number of motor trucks on the farm is making the farmer more and more independent of other forms of transportation. It is extending a primary market five times, giving the farmer greater security and doing much to insure him the full profit from his crops and produce.

E. E. La Schum, Superintendent of Equipment of the American Railway Express Company, says that while the average mileage of trucks is about 40 miles per day, they are capable of making 100 miles without undue strain.

This means that in every truck there are 60 unused daily transportation miles, which can be used when emergency calls.

The farmers of the 10 states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) own 46,582 trucks. These represent unused, potential transportation of 2,794,920 miles per day—quite enough to make the farmer feel reasonably independent and to make the city dweller secure.

The value of these trucks to their owners, and to the community, depends upon an ample supply of gasoline and oils, instantly available when needed.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), recognizing its duty to the public, has organized its distributing facilities to a point where only a complete breakdown of public utilities can prevent its supplying these trucks with oil and gasoline needed, no matter in what corner of the 10 states they may be.

In the cycle of service to which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is committed, the truck plays just as important a part as the automobile and the tractor.

This entire organization is working as one man, to perfect a complete service, and to maintain this service at such a maximum of efficiency that no piece of automotive machinery in the Middle West need ever be delayed a single moment of usefulness through lack of suitable petroleum products.

Extremes Meet In the Hupmobile

Men who can afford only one car, and who demand in that car the most pronounced economy—are among the most enthusiastic owners of the Hupmobile.

Others who can gratify any desire, prefer the Hupmobile because of its dashing appearance and its brilliant, reliable performance.

Both are right. The Hupmobile costs less to keep and to operate than many cars whose first-appeal is price.

Everyone admires the Hupmobile's fast, easy get away, its remarkable flexibility, its power.

When you desire the maximum in motor car service with the minimum in motor car cost, the known facts lead you straight to the Hupmobile.

MAJOR TO REPRESENT THE WAR DEPARTMENT

Gen Lewis, World War Veteran, is Picked by Government to Attend
Legion State Convention

AT TERRE HAUTE SEPT. 25

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 22—Maj. Gen. E. M. Lewis, one of Indiana's bravest and most distinguished soldiers, who was in command of the 30th Division when it broke the Hindenburg line, has been named by the Secretary of War to represent the War Department at the fourth annual state convention of the Indiana American Legion at Terre Haute September 25, 26 and 27. General Lewis will lead the big parade to be held on the second day of the convention and also review it.

Indications are that the reunion of Indiana units in the world war on the first day of the convention (Monday, Sept. 25), will be the largest gathering of former service men and women of Indiana since the close of the war. Terre Haute is preparing to give a royal reception to the visitors, who are expected to wear the old uniform in the procession of war buddies.

Lack of a uniform, however, will be no bar to participating in the parade, and former service men from all parts of the state are announcing their intention of attending the reunions and taking part in the parade with their old buddies. Railroads and interurbans are giving reduced rates to the convention.
